

PRINCIPAL CONSULTANT - GEOSCIENTIST

RISC is seeking a Principal Geoscientist to work in its growing consultancy business. RISC provides specialist, objective advice to E&P companies, investors, financiers, managers and company boards to support their strategic decision-making within the upstream oil and gas industry. The company has a client base of over 200 companies and has executed hundreds of assignments throughout Australasia, Asia-Pacific, Middle East and Africa. The client has offices in Perth and London.

The successful applicant will play an integral role within the RISC Geoscience team and will assist in framing, overseeing and working on projects.

Job Offering

- A dynamic & energetic team environment
- Exposure to many projects in basins across the world
- Practical, hands-on experience
- A highly competitive remuneration packages.

Job Requirements

- A self-starting team player, able to work without supervision
- superior technical understanding of E&P projects with an appreciation of related commercial drivers,
- currency in geological and/or geophysical disciplines and software,
- a broad international background in exploration and development business areas,
- ability to interact with other engineering and commercial disciplines
- highly developed ethics and integrity,
- A confident and personable character with excellent communication and networking skills
- Ability to be able to attract new clients and business will be a distinct advantage

The successful candidate is likely to have a minimum 15 years international experience in senior technical & business positions within operating or consulting organizations, and a track record of achievement and leadership

Typical assignments

- Assessment of prospective exploration projects, valuation of portfolios
- Evaluation of undeveloped fields
- Resource classification and estimation
- Due Diligence assessments for acquisitions and divestments
- Preparation of Independent Expert reports
- Recovery optimization of undeveloped or developed fields

Date Added: June 28, 2010

Contact: Salome Soorma (salomes@risopl.com)