

SENIOR RESERVOIR ENGINEER

- Location: Perth, Australia
- Description: RISC is currently seeking a Reservoir Engineer to join their consultancy with the combination of technical expertise and business perspective. Assignments will range across the lifecycle of the E&P industry from basin evaluation, appraisal development and brownfields projects.
- Typical assignments are:
- Assessment of prospective exploration, valuation of portfolios
  - Gazettal studies
  - Evaluation of undeveloped fields
  - Due Diligence assessments for acquisitions and divestments
  - Recovery optimization of undeveloped or developed fields
- Experience: Prospective candidates should have 8-12 years relevant industry experience, preferably with broader capability in production technology, well performance, PVT, material balance and CSG or heavy oil advantageous. Good working knowledge of SPE-PRMS reserves guidelines and awareness of key differences in other standards e.g. US SEC. Ability to fully integrate work flow with other disciplines to produce an economically rational assessment or development strategy and with a willingness to expand their skill base will be advantageous. High energy levels and commitment is essential.
- Remuneration: A salary package, competitive with the resources industry, will be offered based on the experience and qualifications of the successful candidate.
- Date Added: August 20, 2010
- Contact: Salome Soorma (salomes@rispl.com)